Driving the energy transition with citizen initiatives

Eleonore, a Strasbourg citizen and member of an energy cooperative, wants more control over energy prices and reliance. She believes locally produced, owned, and shared renewable energy is key. She is supported by the local city council and climate agency that place citizen initiatives at the heart of the energy transition.

Working closely together, they tackle challenges and explore solutions, also collaborating with other cities like Utrecht, Leuven, and Dublin-Balbriggan. They inspire one another and show how grassroots efforts drive change.
